FINDORFF RECOGNIZES TALENT WITH RECENT PROMOTIONS

June 1, 2016 (Madison, Wis.) – Findorff is excited to announce several recent promotions of talented, hardworking people that have been instrumental to the Company's success over the years:

- Matt Breunig started with Findorff in 2006 and was recently promoted to Director of Project Management. He has been an instrumental part of Findorff's education team, spearheading various efforts including referendum support and day-to-day oversight of all project management activities. Some of the most recent projects Matt has been a part of include UW-Madison's School of Nursing as well as significant school renovations and additions for multiple school districts throughout Wisconsin. Matt graduated from UW-Stout and a registered LEED® Green Associate. He currently lives in Cambridge with his wife Jill.
- Chad Eschler was promoted to Findorff's Business Development team and began his career with the Company in 2006. Prior to his new position, Chad was Findorff's Special Projects Group Manager and was significantly involved in managing over 300 projects. During his free time, Chad enjoys spending time outdoors and working on projects around the house. Chad is a graduate of UW-Whitewater and resides in Sun Prairie with his wife Michelle. They are proud parents of two boys, Logan and Austin, as well as a loyal dog named Jetty.
- Mark Premo has been with Findorff since 1999 and was recently promoted to Special Projects Group Manager. In this new position, Mark will lead multiple activities supporting construction initiatives for projects diverse in scope and size. Mark previously was a Project Manager where he led various construction efforts for Edgewood College's upcoming new residence hall and multiple projects for Madison College. Mark is a UW-Madison graduate and a registered LEED® Green Associate. He currently lives in Verona with his wife Kristin and two children Katelyn and Ryan.
